

Jennifer N. Brantley, Esq.

Attorney | Speaker | Preacher's Wife | More than a Mrs.

Speaker's Biography

Jennifer N. Brantley is an accomplished speaker, writer, and attorney. She is also a military spouse/preacher's wife and staunch advocate for women, military spouses and their families. She uses her podcast, the DiscardIt Podcast, her brand "More Than a Mrs." and her social media channels as inspirational platforms to encourage women to step outside of their boxes and walk with purpose, both in business and at home. She has worked as a public relations consultant, served as senior counsel at a law firm, was the Contract Administrator and Legal Counsel for Nebraska's Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS), has written speeches for Governor Pete Ricketts and also created FindMe Mobile, the first and only mobile app serving minority military families.

Mrs. Brantley is Lean Six Sigma certified, and speaks on a variety of topics, including personal and professional branding, marriage and the need to foster a welcoming environment for diversity in the military community and the corporate world. She recently was one of nine speakers, including CNN's Brianna Keilar, at the Military Town Hall on Race and the Impact on Military Families. She was also the keynote speaker for Southern New Hampshire University's Operation Homefront Scholarship Celebration, where she spoke on the importance of building an influential circle and speaking life into your dreams.

Jennifer, a Mississippi native and Georgia transplant, is currently stationed in England with her husband, Matthew, an Air Force chaplain, and their dog, Mister.
